A New Chapter in Tailem Bend's History

The smiles and delight on the faces of those people fortunate enough to attend the opening of "The Life and Times of Tailem Bend" exhibition at Council's Coorong Gallery on 26th March were there for all to see.

This special event represented the culmination of several years of painstaking research and sheer hard work by a group of highly motivated dedicated people to preserve the town's history for posterity – The Tailem Bend Historians Association Inc.- people who live and breathe Tailem Bend's history. Those attending would have been nothing less than impressed by the outstanding level of professionalism displayed in producing an exhibition of such superior quality.

This exhibition consisted of dozens of amazing quality black-and-white, expertly preserved photographs, donated by both existing and former residents, plus an interesting collection of memorabilia and artefacts related to Tailem's past as a major railway town, all tastefully displayed. What Tailem Bend Historians produced for this exhibition was adequate proof that a small country town such as Tailem Bend is fortunate enough to possess a group of remarkable people who can produce an exhibition of the highest possible quality. Their hearts and minds must be overflowing with pride at what they have achieved.

The Historians have set an admirable standard of excellence which will likely be repeated in whatever projects they produce in future.

Amongst other innovative initiatives introduced by The Historians is the widely popular weekly meeting, held at the Tailem Bend School Community Library, cleverly titled "Monday Memories" where interested residents gather to share stories from their past. A simply marvellous idea which provides stimulating conversation between the older members of our community.

This remarkable exhibition will continue in the Coorong Gallery until the end of May, when the exhibits will be permanently transferred to a newly refurbished council donated History Room located at the railway station, adjacent to the Info Station.

Each-and-every member of The Historians is worthy of commendation for their efforts in bringing this ambitious programme to fruition. Council also provided valuable assistance towards making this event the success that it was.

Suffice to say that every single member deserves special thanks from the community, and council, for what they have all achieved, with limited financial resources.

The Changing Face of Tailem Bend #107

Last month we looked at the life of Don Lutz as a wood merchant, this time it's about his time in the Lime Kiln.

When he was 18, Don began work at the Tailem Bend Lime Kiln. The Tailem Bend lime kilns were owned by M L Barrey and were situated on Lime Kiln Road, to the south of the town and next to the rail lines. The railway was the means of transporting the lime to Adelaide, where Barry owned a brick works, which is now the Brickworks Market.

The manager, Claude Masters, lived in a house on site. Tom O'Toole also worked at the lime kilns. Sometimes when both kilns were working there could be 8 workers. Otherwise Tom, Don and Claude filled and emptied the kilns themselves. Work at the lime kilns began at 7.30 am and went to 4.30 pm or as long as necessary. They had to work to get the rail truck, which was waiting in the kiln siding, loaded in the time allocated or extra would be charged. No overtime was paid but there were bonuses. There were four kilns on the site. Two were old underground kilns and were no longer used. The two newer kilns were above ground and about 10 feet deep, 12 feet wide, 18 feet high with stone walls one and a half feet thick and could hold 50 tons of stone.

The stone walls of the kilns were lined with bricks which would occasionally burn out and need to be replaced. The limestone was brought closer to the kiln by a horse-drawn tipcart. They were then broken by hand using a sledgehammer to the required sizes. Entering from a door on the side of the kiln, the workers would pack large mallee stumps along the walls then build an arch of large, flat stone from front to back. This would be the space for the fire. Thinner flat stones were placed closest to the fire with 4-inch-thick stones at the top. These stones were picked out by hand as it was important that the arch supported the layers of limestone to be burned.

An area was filled with mallee stumps and a second arch was built. These arches were approximately two and a half feet by three feet, by 10 feet deep. Layers of six-inch sized stones were packed above the arches 3 to 4 foot deep. Next a layer of coke. 4-inch stones layers 2 to 3 foot deep and a layer of coke. 2-inch stones one foot deep: a layer of coke. 1-inch stones, then a layer of three-quarter inch gravel topped the kiln.

The stone and gravel for these layers had to be pushed up to the top of the kiln using a plank of wood and a wheelbarrow. Later an elevator was bought. The depth of each layer was judged by the rows of bricks on the kiln walls. The doorway of the kiln was sealed with two walls of bricks, with lime ash between the walls to keep the heat in. Mallee stumps were put into the fireplace, then 8-foot lengths of mallee were thrown in to keep the fire going, taking great care not to hit the arch of stones.

Crude oil, (left over from diesel production), was sprayed onto the wood by a motorised blower. This crude oil came in 44-gallon drums and was handpumped up to a tank which fed the oil burner. The coke was the residue from the Adelaide Gas Works which produced gas from coal. The fire in the kiln was lit about 5 am. There would be one person to keep the fire going overnight. Tom O'Toole generally worked after tea and Claude Masters took over for the rest of the night. The kiln could burn until 10pm the following night. The oil burner was switched off when the lime on top was white hot. To check this someone must climb up the kiln. Then the fire was left to die down. It took 3 to 4 days to fill a kiln. Each 50 tons of stone which could yield 16 tons of lime.

The Changing Face of Tailem Bend #107

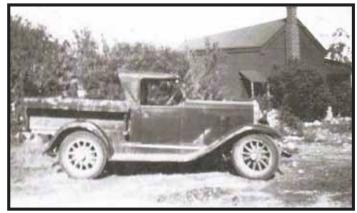

The task was now to empty the kiln. The kilns were opened by removing the brick walls which closed the doorway. The burnt lime still looked like stones but was lighter in weight. One person shovelled and filled ten bags held open by the second person. Then they swapped. The lime was hot and old re-tread tyres, (picked up from the side of the road), were cut up to cover the soles of work boots to save them from burning. The bags of lime were moved by the horse and cart from the shed between the kilns to the rail truck. The ground beside the rails was raised to wheel the bags across from the cart to the rail truck.

Each rail truck could hold 300 to 500 bags of lime. There were times when the lime firing did not work. A thunderstorm could turn the lime to powder. Alternatively, the stone in the centre of the kiln could remain unburned. Any lime which was over-fired or spoiled by a thunderstorm, had to be thrown away.

In 1959 Quarry Industries opened a quarry in Tailem Bend. It was near the present-day grain bunkers. Don decided to trade in his Austin A40 car and buy a new Austin truck to work for Quarry Industries. This was the beginning of many years work at various sites where Quarry Industries mined and crushed gravel for road work. Don bought a caravan in which he lived on sites during the week, wherever the quarry was. These sites included Millicent, Mt McIntyre, Lucindale, Myponga, Moana, Clare, Burra, and Belvidere. The first two weeks of work with his new truck saw the wind blow so hard that it blew the belt off the crusher. This meant no work and no income. Don reverted to carting stone for the lime kiln until work could resume at the quarry.

Don recalls hot days and nights, when the rain made the ground so boggy that even a bulldozer became stuck attempting to drag trucks and caravans to firmer ground. When working at Bordertown, stone was picked from ploughed paddocks and carted to the crusher. Don would do 8 seven-ton loads of stone each day, all picked by hand! Don carted gravel for use in the concrete in the building of the Myponga Reservoir. The quarry and camp were at Wattle Creek. Don said after the project was complete, that he did not like driving over the dam because he knew what went into its construction.

Working for quarry Industries gave Don a good income. He decided to build a house in Seymour St, for the family to live in. They had been living in a rented house in Main St. (now Mawson St). Don also bought a new Thames truck and 600 acres of farmland at the end of Blackett's road.

The land had been owned by a Mr Luther. Don's uncle and brother-in-law helped to grow crops and run pigs and sheep on the farm. Don kept working for the Quarry Industries during the week, mainly based at the quarry at Reynella. A few years later Don bought a further 600 acres along Blackett's road.

In 1970 Don met Doreen who had come from England to teach at Tailem Bend Primary School. They were married in 1971. In 1974 Don sold the land on Blackett's road to a developer and bought a farm on Westbrook road. This property had been taken up by Mr C H Aesche in 1909. Later owners had been Bevis Bradtke, Vern Lienert and Jim Enright. Don and Doreen had four children: Gordon, Anne, Trevor, and Kym. Gordon wished to become a farmer and so Don bought the neighbouring farm from Ray and Colin Watchel in 1987. This was just at the time when the price of wool went through the floor, the price of grain fell, and interest rates rose. Gordon and Don worked hard to keep the farm. They shore the wool from skins bought from Trevor Mitchel's abattoir, and purchased a Peak Hill sheep dip to go on- farm sheep dipping. Don and Doreen retired to live in Tailem Bend in 2017.

Well done Don many thanks for a story of hard work, perseverance and success that goes with it.

Still to come Brian McLoughlin and the rowing shed, also Catholic Nun Sister Michele, her family that included her father, legendary racehorse caller Ted Madigan. See you then. In the meantime

Report by Bob Shurville

Opening speeches began with Council Senior Community and Tourism Development Officer, Kellie Jaensch, welcoming guests and acknowledging respect for the traditional owners of the ancestral land, the Ngarrindjeri, upon which the gathering was held, and welcomed Tailem Bend Primary School student, Leo Rigney, to undertake an acknowledgement.

Non-attendance apologies had been received from MP's Tony Pasin and Adrian Pederick, Mayor Paul Simmons, and several councillors.

Kellie explained that due to the COVID problem the launch had been delayed by 12 months but that she was "very pleased to finally see this exhibition come together". She continued "History shares fascinating stories and reminds us how far we have come, and my hometown Tailem Bend has wonderful stories to tell. Such displays bring communities together and seek to preserve history for future generations." she said.

Kellie then invited local historian, Elizabeth Nicholls, to explain further to guests more details about the exhibition. Elizabeth thanked the Historians Committee who, she said had "made it happen". She also thanked the numerous government organisations, and in particular the Coorong Council, for providing help and information, and especially thanked "residents past and present who wrote family histories and offered priceless family photographs for publication." And she further acknowledged that "many local businesses sponsored and supported the project."

Association Secretary, Angie Tomkinson, had the extraordinary task of collating countless exhibits ready for display, and council's Patsy Crabb was responsible for expertly installing the display, to make it "look perfect."

Elizabeth also recognised that "the history group originated in 2015 when council Tourism Officer, Anna del Rio, Geraldine Dickson, Peter and Bob Connolly, and Don Green formed the nucleus of what has since become the vibrant group it is today".

"Kathleen and Harry Kromwyk," continued Elizabeth "amassed an astounding compendium of the names of more than 4,000 railway workers, and Peter Connolly has recorded a substantial collection of historical stories, published each month in Tailem Topics."

"All this" Elizabeth continued "has provided us with a vivid picture of "The Life and Times of Tailem Bend".

Finally, Elizabeth introduced as Guest Speaker former Deputy Commissioner of SA Police, John White, himself a passionate historian, whose achievements include an OAM award and The Australian Police Medal. Mr. White spoke about early policing at Tailem Bend from 1884 and the difficulties associated with keeping order in the workers' camps while laying the railway lines.

In conclusion, Elizabeth thanked Mr. White for his interesting input to the day's activities, following which she announced:

"I NOW DECLARE THE LIFE AND TIMES OF TAILEM BEND EXHIBITION OFFICIALLY OPEN."

Mischief & Mayhem – This Month's Recipe

The Tailem Bend Christmas Parade Committee, feature article by Jeanette Kozikowski.

Our talented cook for May is Rhonda Mik. Rhonda celebrated her 90th birthday in December last year and still loves getting out and about and enjoying being part of our community. Rhonda and her husband Dave owned and managed the Tailem Bend Bakery for 29½ years, from 1954 until 1984, when they sold the business to Maureen and Malcolm Millard and Di and Graeme Millard.

In the beginning the shop was quite small. As pictured above the building included the shop on the far left, the residence, and the bake house. In the early 60's there was also a hairdressing shop around the corner to the right. The new premises were built in 1968 on the same site.

Rhonda's husband Dave was the Baker and he learnt his trade in Holland before emigrating to Australia in 1954. Max Ridge was the pastry cook and Ron Ryan worked with the ovens and their sons Chris and Darren also worked there.

Rhonda is sharing with us the recipes for the pies, pasties and sausage rolls that were baked at the bakery. Over the years she has also made them at home for family and friends. They were the most popular pastries around at the time and I know many will appreciate having the recipe.

Rhonda believes the beef booster made their pies so flavoursome and always very popular. They were initially round pies, with a flaky pastry and a tasty loose mince filling.

The sausage rolls were made with McMorron's Butcher's sausage meat. If you can remember enjoying these sausages, you would agree that they were simply the best and of course this made the sausage rolls scrumptious too. The pasties were also very tasty with lots of vegetables as well as premium minced beef.

Tailem Bend RSL Sub-Branch

Report by Christopher Taylor, President of the Returned and Services League -Tailem Bend.

On the 25th April 1915, in the darkness, before dawn, the first soldiers of the Australian and New Zealand Army Corps landed on the shores of the Gallipoli peninsula.

Those ANZACs stormed ashore in a place now known as ANZAC cove. It was our first major contribution to the world as a nation - Australia was only 14 years old. For the next eight months, the campaign was a stalemate. In December, the Anzacs were evacuated. By then, about 8700 Australians and almost 2700 New Zealanders had been killed. They were some of at least 130,000 soldiers on both sides who lost their lives at Gallipoli.

Anzac Day has been one of the most important dates on Australia's calendar since 1916. At first, it gave people a chance to honour the original Anzacs – the Australians and New Zealanders who fought on Gallipoli. Then it became a day for those who had served in the First World War. With Australians experiencing the Second World War, and wars, conflicts and peacekeeping operations that have followed, Anzac Day has become an occasion to honour all who have worn our country's uniform in service. Today, we reflect on that service.

Australians fought with distinction in Korea and took part in campaigns such as Borneo and Malaya. Our longest ever commitment to a conflict was in Vietnam, where over almost eight years, 46,000 Australian men and women served - some volunteers and some conscripts - but all there to do their duty. As they do today in their peace keeping duties.

But ANZAC day is not commemoration of the victories or defeats of the Australian armed forces at war. Instead we simply remember that individual, ordinary Australian men and women were prepared to make personal sacrifices, many who gave their lives, for the freedom and quality of life that we enjoy today.

We recognise more than a hundred thousand Australian service men and women who have lost their lives in military operations carried out in our country's name. We honour the values that have been invested in the original Anzacs – loyalty, selflessness, courage – and the ways in which later generations have measured their own achievements against those of the soldiers who fought on Gallipoli.

They shall grow not old, as we that are left grow old; Age shall not weary them, nor the years condemn. At the going down of the sun and in the morning We will remember them. Lest we forget.

The RSL Tailem Bend would like to thank the Tailem Bend Primary School for their partnership and involvement.

Pangarinda Botanic Garden

Editorial by Kaye Bartlett.

Eucalyptus wyolensis a very rare tree, growing in the Great Victoria Desert north of Cook SA near Wyola Lake. Hence the name. As it grows in red sand naturally it has found the sandy soil of Pangarinda Botanic Garden to their liking, with four of these Eucalypts growing well and flowering at present. Large, grey, rounded leaves of this small, sometimes straggly tree is massed with glaucous, grey buds, opening to pale vellow flowers.

Being member of the Australia Plant Society (APS) Both Paul and I spent 10th and 11th of April helping with Autumn Plant sale which is held each year at Wayville. Last year both Autumn and Spring plant sales were cancelled due to Covid.

Plants are grown by members who have access to APS seed bank. Members supply excess seeds from their gardens to the bank for other members to access. These sales are where we access a lot of the rare plants growing at Pangarinda, as well as donations of plants from members.

In March we attended the Eremophila study group weekend held at Kadina. The study groups are also part of APS. Members can join these groups. The leader of this group is from NSW, some our first meeting, have contact via on line new letters which leaders produce from members data.

The day had talks on growing of Eremophila's from seeds which has proved almost impossible some of the members talking how they have had success. Growing from cuttings, the best part of the plant to try, soil to use. Demonstration of grafting. Visiting gardens seeing numerous new species growing.

As You Are

We are constantly surrounded by people and things that remind us that we are not enough And no matter what we do or how hard we try, in our eyes, there will always be someone doing it better in life. We don't have to look far. It is like we are sucked into this whirlpool of comparison – trying to measure ourselves up against others. Sometimes this is not intentional, but it becomes a burden. We find ourselves browsing social media or watching tv, where the pictures, tags, shows and movies tell us one thing – how great someone else wants us to see that particular moment. The reality behind that moment lasts in our minds. The perceptions we bring to what we see, ingrains itself in us.

We get overloaded and drawn in. Our response can come out in so many ways. The way we speak to and treat others, the way we interact in our relationships, the conclusions we jump to before we know someone's full story. Our attitude. The snippy comment. We start to lose our compassion and understanding, the bit in us that shows empathy to family, friends and strangers. Our relationships begin to fragment and sometimes we don't even recognize it. It isn't healthy for us or those around us. The downward spiral of not being enough is toxic.

In a world that tells us we are not good enough Jesus says you are good enough. Jesus is the one who thinks the world of us just as we are. Jesus is the one who loves us where we are at, with all our doubts and failings. Jesus.

But when we come to believe and trust in Jesus, we have a life shift, a different focus. We find ourselves looking with different eyes. Eyes of love, joy, peace, patience, kindness, goodness, faithfulness, gentleness and self-control (Galatians 5: 22-23). And we find ourselves acting towards others in those ways too. It becomes ingrained in us.

Jesus looks at you with love, with joy, with peace, with patience, with kindness, with goodness, with faithfulness, with gentleness, with self-control, because He is all of that and more. And He promises to give you even more. Come to faith in and through Jesus as you are because He made it possible. John 14:6 says Jesus answered, "I am the way and the truth and the life. No one comes to the Father except through me.

When He died on the cross, He died for each and every person. Those who believe, those who don't yet believe and for those who will never believe. In believing in Him as your Saviour, you receive the promise of eternity with Him in heaven in absolute perfect peace. No doubts, no failings, no pain, no suffering, no hurt, no anguish, no worries, no comparisons in heaven. That is something that no one else, or nothing else can offer, no matter how good their sales pitch. A perfect life after this one. Jesus' death was a sacrifice for each and every one of us. One that none of us could ever earn.

A free gift to us to show how much He loved us.

His death, the death of the God – Man, has secured believers in Him, life in heaven with Him forever. That is an absolute unbreakable promise. One we can rest securely in.

Jesus sees us where we are, and He loves us where we are at. He asks us to look to Him and trust in Him, not the world and people around us. He is our guide. His Word, the Bible, tells us that and so much more about Him. His Word changes our focus and perspective. And it doesn't matter if you have believed in him for 5 days or 50 years, there is always something new to find out about Jesus.

He loves you. Come as you are. Just as you are.

Tailem Bend Football Club

Report by Margaret Jaensch

Special Day for the Tailem Bend Football Club.

On Saturday 24th April Tailem Bend Football Club took on Imperials playing the Anzac Match remembering all the Servicemen and Women who bravely fought for our wonderful Country. In the A Grade match a player that shows the ANZAC Spirit is awarded the honour of the ANZAC Medal. Tailem Bend's very own Ben Hansen was the recipient of this medal for 2021. Congratulations Ben.

The Leahy Kneebone Cup between Imperials and Tailem Bend is a special day to reflect and remember two beautiful young ladies that tragically lost their lives in separate car accidents and to always offer support and love to their families and friends. A day to come together to remember how fragile and precious life is and a reminder that we all need to take care on our roads, Tailem Bend Football Club are extremely proud and honoured to bring the Leahy Kneebone cup home to Tailem Bend. Tailem Bend A grade won the match, 15 goals 13 points to Imperials 10 goals 8 points.

HAVE YOUR SAY ON THE REGION'S DRAFT PUBLIC HEALTH PLAN

A draft plan has been prepared for improving public health and wellbeing in the Murraylands and Riverland Region.

The plan has been developed by the Murraylands and Riverland Local Government Association (the MRLGA) and the region's eight constituent councils: Coorong District Council, the Rural City of Murray Bridge, District Council of Karoonda East Murray, Southern Mallee District Council, Mid Murray Council, Renmark Paringa Council, Berri Barmera Council and the District Council of Loxton Waikerie.

The plan outlines the goals that the councils will work towards together and the actions that each council will deliver to improve the health and wellbeing of people in the region.

Key focus areas of the plan include:

- Building community wellbeing and resilience
- Increasing healthy living choices
- Preparing for climate change and planning for emergency; and
- Sustaining environmental and public health.

Development of the plan included an assessment of public health indicators for the region and workshops with councils and local stakeholders to identify regional issues and strengths.

"Our region faces a number of health and wellbeing challenges, however we can work to improve public health through management of public open space and recreation facilities, community centres and programs, neighbourhood planning and environmental health and immunisation programs," says Coorong District Council Mayor Paul Simmons.

Importantly, the plan establishes a new governance approach which will increase collaboration between the councils, strengthening the regional response and sharing knowledge and resources.

The MRLGA and councils are now inviting community and organisations to provide feedback on the draft plan. The draft plan can be viewed and a feedback form completed from the MRLGA website (www.mmlga.sa.gov.au).

Roby School Stands To Attention

Editorial by Clem Tynan

After a century of dust, vermin, rain and heat the Roby School has been revitalised. Built by Mr's Clem Wilkin and Fred Cordes in 1919-20, on the Wilkin property, for the benefit and education of ten families surrounding their properties.

Clem moved from Wonna, near Terowie, after riding his push bike to Coomandook, to inspect properties in the Hundred of Roby during 1908. He married Emma Jones of Carrington in 1913 and the first of their family arrived in 1914. The Cordes Family lived on a neighbouring property and along with other neighbours, required their children to be educated.

Education commenced in 1919 in the original "house" built by Clem Wilkin. The first teacher, Miss Fisher, at her first posting, boarded three miles away (5km) at the Cordes' home; there were neither cars nor roads in those days. It was a real wonder that Miss Fisher stayed on because after travelling to Coomandook by train, she was advised to continue to Yumali as the Cordes family never came to Coomandook.

On this advice to continue to Yumali, at that time there was nothing more than a small tin shed in the Mallee scrub. She waited many hours until a small girl appeared on a horse to pick up a parcel, she said to stay here, that she would arrange something. Some time later a horse and cart driven by a wild looking bearded man appeared, Mr Max Wilkin, Clem Wilkin's brother, she was hoping the situation was sorted, as by this time it was nearly dark. After several hours of travel through the bush they finally arrived at the Cordes' home, to meet a rather distort Mrs Cordes, who had been to Coomandook and back.

In the summer of 1920 Clem and Fred set to work on the construction of the new School building "The Hundred of Roby School".

Neighbours happily collected and delivered dray loads of lime stone, to assist in the building of this very important part of providing education for their children. With this community spirit the School building was ready for students at the start of the 1920 school year.

In the late 1990's the Wilkin Family Club recognized the significance of this building for the Family and the community. It must be pointed out that this building is on private property, two kilometres from the closest road. Several years later, negotiations with the current land owners resulted in a plaque being mounted on a large limestone, happily provided and placed in position by them. The unveiling of this plaque attracted 150 people, a result that startled the committee and sparked interest in preserving this little piece of local history.

After further negotiations with the owners of the land and discussions with Wilkin Family members, it was decided in 2018 to replace the roof using new corrugated iron. Three of Clem and Emma's grandchildren completed this job, along with some small repairs to the stone work, the first small step in the preservation of this almost 100 year old building.

In early 2020 Clem and Emma's daughter, Ida Warner, believed to be the only remaining living student of the school, offered to help if the Family wished to replace the floor. There were some stipulations however, this floor is jarrah of a rare size and the requirement was to restore it to its former glory. This sturdy little building, built as a school and also used as a social meeting venue for about 25 years, then as a barn for a further 50 years, has had many occupants. There are many family members' recollections of encounters with rats, mice and bees over the years. White ants had also enjoyed time in residence working hard at anything that was not jarrah, or limestone, it is a pity that a cupboard containing all of the school records, became a playground for the above residents.

With further discussions among the many grandchildren of the Wilkin and Cordes families, it was decided that it would be a worthwhile project for this branch of the Wilkin Family Club. Late in 2020 work began on the removal of the old floor, revealing that about 60-70% of the material would be able to be reused. This was quite incredible considering it had been simply laid on top of rock and sand, left over from building of the walls.

In early 2021, work by several Grandchildren of Clem and Emma removed many tons of material and prepared the room for the "new" floor. The leader in this project, Max Wilkin, Grandson of Clem and Emma, went to great lengths to locate matching flooring to finish the project. The great contributions and support by family and others, have made this a very worthwhile project.

Roby School Stands To Attention

The 11th of April 2021 will be remembered as a special time in the Wilkin Family history, there has been 117yrs. of living and working in the Southern Mallee of South Australia. Two of Clem's brothers were some of the first to farm at Coomandook, commencing in 1904. The one very special memory however is that of 94 year old Ida Warner (nee Wilkin) opening the door of her old School and seeing it as it was in 1932 when she started her education. We believe she is the last surviving student who attended "Hundred of Roby School".

Mothers Day Poems

Your Mother is always with you.

She's the whisper of the leaves as you walk down the street, the smell of certain foods you remember, flowers you pick, the fragrance of life itself. She's the cool hand on your brow when you're not feeling well. She's the breath in the air on a cold winter's day. She is the sound of the rain that lulls you to sleep, The colours of the rainbow. She is Christmas morning. Your Mother lives inside your laughter. She's the place you came from, your first home and she's the map you follow with every step you take. She's your first love, your first friend, even your first enemy but nothing on earth can separate you, not time, not space.... not even death. Author unknown

Only One Mother

Thought for the Month

Presented by Doreen Lutz on behalf of Trinity Lutheran Church. The Wife of Noble Character.

As we celebrate Mother's Day in May, my thoughts turned to Proverbs 31, Verses 10 – 31. "A wife of noble character, who can find? She is worth far more than rubies. Her husband has full confidence in her and lacks noting of value. She brings him good, not harm, all the days of her life"......

"Charm is deceptive and beauty is fleeting, but a woman who fears the Lord is to be praised. Give her the reward she has earned".

The wife of noble character does not use charm or beauty to attract and keep a husband. Her attraction is her character.

This noble woman is intelligent, hardworking, 'clothed with strength and dignity' and loved by her husband and children. She provides for her family and has her own business making clothes to sell. The money she makes from her business she invests in a vineyard, not because her husband wanted her to, but because 'she considers a field and buys it'.

I am sure we can look upon our mothers and realise the amount of work that went into raising the family. All done with love.

A wife and mother who loves her family will do all she can to look after them and guide them. The 5th Commandment tells us to: "Honour your father and mother so that you may live long in the land the Lord your God is giving you".

Deadly Virus Found In South Australian Bats

People heading outdoors are reminded to avoid any contact with bats, after it was confirmed that two recent exposures in South Australia last month involved bats carrying Australian Bat Lyssavirus (ABL).

The Department for Health and Wellbeing's Communicable Disease Control Branch Director, Dr Louise Flood, said the latest exposures were the third time in SA that ABL had been confirmed in bats, with the first detected in 2012.

"ABL is a rabies-like disease that can be transmitted to humans if they are bitten or scratched by an infected bat and if treatment is delayed until after the onset of symptoms, the condition is invariably fatal," Dr Flood said. "While only one per cent of bats usually carry ABL, these two recent exposures are concerning and is an important reminder that bats should only ever be handled by appropriately trained and vaccinated animal handlers.

If you are bitten or scratched by a bat, or come into contact with bat saliva, you should take immediate action by:

• Cleaning the area with soap and water for at least five minutes

• Applying antiseptic such as povidone-iodine

•Contacting a doctor or hospital emergency department and commencing a course of post-exposure prophylaxis if necessary

If you do come across a bat that appears to be dead, injured or in distress, contact the Fauna Rescue SA bat helpline on 8486 1139 or Bat Rescue SA on 0475 132 093.

Unfortunately at this time we are unable to hold any Blue Light Discos due to Covid. However, we have been given approval to hold two Blue Light Camps for the Year 6 and 7 students.

We endeavour to run these camps with as little financial outlay as possible. If you have jam, fruit, eggs or tomatoes that you can donate it would be very much appreciated. Even a batch of biscuits, muffins or a cake would be fantastic.

Please contact Margaret Jaensch 0439858739 or Mariane Morgan 0408807705 to donate.

2021 Meetings for Tailem Bend Neighbourhood Watch

Area 484 will resume on the second Monday of the following months July 12th, September 13th & November 8th. As for Blue Light, it is still watch this space. We are unable to resume until we receive approval from the Blue Light Executive in Adelaide.

ROAD SAFETY TIP FATAL FIVE: SPEED, DRUGS AND ALCOHOL, DISTRACTION, SEATBELTS, DANGEROUS DRIVING

Please be careful on our roads, especially while the school holidays are on. Make sure children always wear their seatbelts in vehicles. Take regular breaks, have a plan for activities to keep children occupied so they are not a distraction.
